

TW Price Action & Support / Resistance Guide

TW Trades Library • Educational Edition

Market Structure: Read swing highs and lows across a defined timeframe. A body close beyond a level is different from a wick that only probes it.

Support and Resistance: Treat important levels as zones. Higher-timeframe zones provide context; lower-timeframe price action can refine entries.

Breakout and Retest: A confirmed close beyond a zone followed by a controlled test can provide structure for planning. A retest is not guaranteed.

TW Blueprint / ICC: Indication is the structural break or expansion. Correction is the retracement. Continuation is the confirmation that price resumes the intended direction.

Invalidation: Define before entry what price condition proves the setup wrong. Do not move the invalidation simply to avoid a loss.

Checklist: Structure clear; zone identified; confirmation present; correction understood; continuation condition defined; invalidation known; risk calculated; no chasing.

Educational notice: This guide is educational material, not financial advice. No setup is guaranteed.